
Table of Contents

Introvert: The Stereotype.....	viii
Introvert: The Truth	ix

THE BACK STORY

There's Nothing Wrong with Me; I'm Just an Introvert	xii
A Real Problem, with Tragic Consequences	xvi
I Am Peter Vogt. I Speak for the Introverts.....	xviii

ABOUT THIS BOOK

Blissfully Brief and Blissfully Blunt.....	xxii
What's in a Name? Three Very Carefully Chosen Words	xxv
One Last Thing: There's No Such Thing as an Introvert—or an Extravert.....	xxvii

THE INTROVERT MANIFESTO

Setting the Scenario for The Introvert Manifesto	1
There's Nothing Wrong with Me; I'm Just an Introvert	2

I've Spent Too Much of My Life Thinking Something Must Be Wrong with Me	4
My Introversion Isn't an (In)Ability; It's a Preference	6
I May or May Not Be Shy	8
The 4 Pillars of Introvert Well-Being	10
I Don't Just Want My Alone Time; I Need It	12
Alone Isn't the Same as Lonely	14
My Wanting to Be Alone Has Nothing to Do with You	16
If I Don't Take Time to Recharge in Relative Solitude, I Get Cranky ... with You and Me Both	18
I Do My Best Work Alone	20
I Need Time—Often Lots of It—to Piece My Thoughts Together	22
Just Because I'm Not Talking Doesn't Mean I'm Not Engaged	24
One at a Time, Please—That's My Focus	26
I Hate Being Interrupted—Which Is Why I Also Hate Interrupting	28
I'd Much Rather Be Thorough Than Fast	30

I Crave Depth in My Life— in Conversations, in Relationships, in Activities ... in Practically Everything	32
What Energizes You Drains Me—and Vice Versa	34
I Don't Strive to Become More Extraverted	36
I Don't Ask You to Defend Your Extraversion, So Don't Ask Me to Defend My Introversion	38
My Introversion Fluctuates by Situation	40
When I'm Passionate About Something, I'll Out-Extravert Most Extraverts	42
Under Extreme Duress, I Become Even More Introverted Than Usual	44
My Idea of Fun Is Almost Nothing Like Your Idea of Fun—and It's Often Ridiculed	46
No Matter How Much Fun I'm Having, I'll Be Drained When It's Over	48
Too Much Noise and Commotion Takes a Physical and Psychological Toll on Me— Especially When I Can't Control It	50
Surprises Drain Me	52
I Don't Want the Spotlight— at Least Not for Its Own Sake	54

I'm Not Private ; I Just Have a Robust "Worth Sharing" Filter	56
I'm Not Difficult to Get to Know; I'm Slow to Get to Know.....	58
There's More on My Mind, and in My Heart, Than I Let On	60
I Long to Be Really, Truly Heard— So Please: Really, Truly Listen.....	62

THE LAST WORD

I'm Not Anti-Extravert; I'm Pro-Introvert.....	66
The Introvert's Bill of Rights.....	68

THE 4 PILLARS OF INTROVERT WELL-BEING

The 4 Pillars of Introvert Well-Being: The Introvert's Recipe for Happy, Healthy Living	72
Acknowledgments	78
Index	80
About the Author	84